Personification Poem

Personification is a poetic device where animals, plants or even inanimate objects, are given human qualities – resulting in a poem full of imagery and description.

Choose an item or idea from the novel and give it human qualities.

The dish is running away with the spoon. These inanimate objects do not run, however in the personification poem they are.

Hey Diddle Diddle

Hey diddle diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon.
The little dog laughed,
To see such fun,
And the dish ran away with the spoon.
